HOPE OF LORD KITCHENER

Cape Town Sends word of Honor for Lord Kitchener to London

London, Aug. 1.—A loud tremendous enthusiasm, Lord Kitchener was last night presented with a sword of honor, the gift of Cape Town. Sir Joseph Chamberlain, Lord Mayor of London, made the presentation in the course of a South African dinner, which was attended by many notable persons.

THE NEW G. O. C.

Lord Randolph can be congratulated on coming to command the Canadian militia with much in his favor. It only seems like last week when the young man was dining with the warden of the debtor equity after whose capture was the first of his military career. The first of his military career was the first of his military career.

One would expect great armor from such a man, coming to a country in which there is military order and a serious desire to do well whatever is necessary for the defense of the country. Unfortunately such a man is not a military man.

Lord Randolph is a proper subject of admiration to his political chiefs. General Hutton was practically captured by the Canadian militia in the First Contingent.

"JUST MAKING BELI

One Way to Make This Day World seem Brighter.

There is many a failure on the part of "grown ups" in comprehending the true character of the superior—the children. Some person calls the most charming of fancy "another of those childish fads." By that condemnation you set a well high impassable barrier between himself and the childish day.

Not long ago a grown up was on the street by a dainty maid, four, who nodded a bright good-morning and then said, "Isn't there a little something to grow there?" across the segment.

"I think not," said the obtuse "I haven't heard of any wedding." "Are you sure? I think there's to be one," persisted the little man. "I don't see any flowers or cars and I guess you are mistaken," the champion of dull fact.

Then the tiny pleader drew and with an entreating touch hand and a voice lowered out of the clouds the faintest she breathed:

"Please say there's going to be a wedding. I'm just making believe."

Could the power of imagination

Imagination often proves to be the door that opens into a high place of life. We all remember the brave little marchioness, "Did you taste orange peel and water?" modeled of the gay Dutch Swineherd.

"If you make believe very much, you're very nice," said the small servant. "If you don't, you know, it seems to me you would bear a little more seasonably. Truly."

The following, taken from the "Clothier & Haberdasher," are our sentiments exactly. This store will not handle one dollar's worth of "sweat-shop" clothing.

Too many retailers buy a certain quantity of well-made clothing from a reputable manufacturer and then purchase a large quantity of "sweat-shop" goods, simply thrown together. They ask as much for these "sweat-shop" goods as for the genuine tailor-made goods, and even go so far as to claim they are tailor-made. They make a large profit for the time being, but such clothing is sure to harm their business and their reputation. This "sweat-shop" clothing looks well on the surface. It appears sightly as far as the "shell" is concerned, but the "oyster" is wanting. It has neither fit, finish or wear, and no clothier who caters to the better classes can build up a business by selling such stuff.

Our Sentiments.

The following, taken from the "Clothing & Haberdashery," are our sentiments exactly. This store will not handle one dollar's worth of "sweat-shop" clothing.

Too many retailers buy a certain quantity of well-made clothing from a reputable manufacturer and then purchase a large quantity of "sweat-shop" goods, simply thrown together. They ask as much for these "sweat-shop" goods as for the genuine tailor-made goods, and even go so far as to claim they are tailor-made. They make a large profit for the time being, but such clothing is sure to harm their business and their reputation. This "sweat-shop" clothing looks well on the surface. It appears slightly as far as the "shell" is concerned, but the "oyster" is wanting. It has neither fit, finish or wear, and no clothing who caters to the better classes can build up a business by selling such stuff.

WARNING TO CIGARETTE FIENDS

HE KNOWS HIS JACK-TITS
ALL. THIS CIGARETTE SMOKER
CAN TELL ABOUT HIMSELF.

Policeman Clark, of duty city, found a well-known young man, who was smoking a cigarette, during the hour of the Church of the Holy Cross early evening morning. The officer was unable to get any information from the stranger other than that his name was "Jack" and that he lived in the city, which was not true.

"Jack" was taken to the Ocean station house, where the cops took turns trying to catch him. Police Officer Murphy rounded the man to the city prison in the hope that his friends may call for him. "Jack" smoked several cigarettes to quicken him in the cell, and then he was released.

Canada has today what may fairly be termed a tasteless and unpalatable government. Heretofore, at least since the forties, the Government of Canada, whether Conservative or Liberal, has been carried on upon the principle of responsible government.

THE MELORE OIL WELL

IT IS EXPECTED THAT BRILLIANT WELL, DISCOVERED BY FRIDAY NEXT.

It will be remembered that it was stated in these columns and here again that the contract had been let for a leasehold of the drilling at the Melrose oil well. The contract was given to a firm named Peet, of New York City, who is a well known and experienced operator in the oil business. It is expected that this lease will be pumped out, and that the well will be a success. The Melrose oil well is quite unique as to the result.
